This week our talented young lady Destini has created four images to help us to hear the Word of God this morning, particularly around covenantal love. Take a look at each one and see how they speak to you. As for me, the first image showing peace written above the mountain backdrop reminded me of the comforting words of Psalm 121; the second one of the two-tone world surrounded by hearts reminded me of God's love for this broken and ravaged world; the third with the bird and vine reminded me of the requirement of humans to be stewards of God's world and to take care of it, and also reminded me of the interdependence between all God's living creatures; and the fourth reminded me of the song 'He has the whole wide world in his hands'. What a great set of images – what do they say to you?
