INTRODUCTION

The Salvation Army has been serving the people of Scotland since 1879. Today our work includes:

- 67 Corps (or churches), which have Sunday worship services and a range of community work, including
 - Activity and interest groups of various kinds, from art classes to walking clubs
 - Cafés, breakfast clubs and lunch clubs
 - Charity shops and furniture recycling projects
 - Clubs for children, and for senior citizens
 - Debt advice
 - Drop-in centres
 - Drug & alcohol addiction support
 - Employment projects
 - Food banks, food parcels and food distribution
 - Parents & toddlers groups and playgroups
 - Street projects
- 15 homeless projects, including residential, drop-in, floating support and resettlement services
- Two care homes/centres for older people
- Emergency response
- A family tracing service
- Chaplaincy services
- A centre for adults with learning disabilities

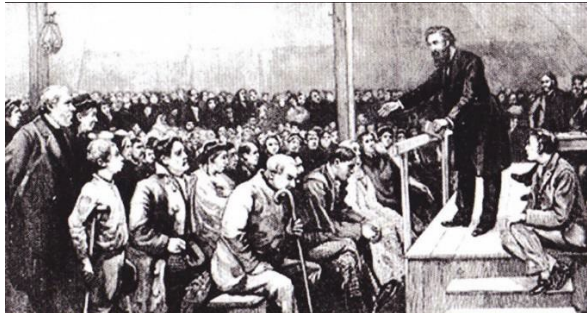

This booklet will give you more details about the work, including contact information. You are welcome to get in contact with any of our centres to arrange a visit.

WHAT IS THE SALVATION ARMY?

How we started

The Salvation Army was founded in 1865 by a Methodist minister, William Booth. Working with volunteers from various churches in the East End of London he became the leader of a movement called 'The Christian Mission'. The work included evangelism, practical service and social action.

William Booth preaching in a tent meeting

In 1878 the name was changed to 'The Salvation Army'. William Booth became its General, and uniforms, ranks and flags were introduced.

General Booth's gifted wife, Catherine, played an influential part in the movement's early development, particularly in encouraging women to take on leadership roles.

The Salvation Army quickly spread to all parts of the United Kingdom, coming to Scotland in 1879. Expansion overseas followed, so that in 2016 it is at work in 127 countries.

What we do

Our International Mission Statement says: 'The Salvation Army, an international movement, is an evangelical part of the universal Christian Church. Its message is based on the Bible. Its ministry is motivated by the love of God. Its mission is to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ and to meet human needs in his name without discrimination.'

We believe that people consist of body, mind, and soul, which means that they have both social and spiritual needs. In our work we seek to meet these needs with an integrated approach. This means that our corps (churches) usually provide community programmes as well as meetings for Christian worship. The social centres, as well as addressing people's physical, emotional and social needs, also have chaplains who can respond to spiritual needs.

Our social and community services are offered to people of all faiths and none. Although our Christian faith motivates our work, we are called to 'love our neighbour' whoever they are and whatever they believe, and therefore we do not require anyone to profess a Christian faith to use our services.

How we are organised

The Salvation Army's International Headquarters is in London, from where our international leader (the General) oversees the work around the world.

Leadership is provided by full-time commissioned officers who are recognised ministers of religion and by territorial envoys and community mission facilitators. However, the work would not be possible without our members, employees and volunteers.

The Salvation Army works across 134 countries. The Salvation Army in Scotland is part of the United Kingdom & Ireland Territory.

The Scotland Office is led by the Secretary for Scotland. The office supports The Salvation Army's work across Scotland in a variety of ways.

Engaging with the Scottish Parliament. The Scotland Office responds to proposed legislation and highlights relevant policy issues. The Salvation Army has representatives on several cross-party groups in the Scottish Parliament.

Relating to other Christian churches, faith movements, and voluntary organisations. These include:

- Scottish Christian Forum
- Scottish Christian Leaders Forum
- Scottish Ecumenical Officers Forum
- Action of Churches Together in Scotland (ACTS), which includes nine of the main Christian denominations in Scotland
- Scottish Churches Committee
- Scottish Churches Parliamentary Office
- Christian Aid Scotland
- Evangelical Alliance in Scotland
- Interfaith Scotland
- Scottish Faith Action for Refugees (SFAR)
- Scottish Council of Voluntary Organisations

Communicating through traditional media and social media, in collaboration with the PR & Communications Officer for Scotland.

Co-ordinating Mission Scotland. The emphasis is on three mission priorities: disciple-making corps, children's and youth mission, and life-changing social mission. The Scotland Office works with the two Scotland divisions and Salvation Army social services in order to facilitate and co-ordinate these mission priorities.

THE SCOTLAND DIVISIONS

Across Scotland our Corps (church) and community work is organised into two geographical divisions: North Scotland and Central & Southern Scotland.

Each division is headed by a Divisional Commander who, with a team at Divisional Headquarters (DHQ), supports the local work by providing pastoral care, training, mission planning and leader development.

CORPS AND COMMUNITY CENTRES

Salvation Army churches (we call them 'corps') are places of worship where Sunday services (or 'meetings') are held.

A typical Sunday congregation will be made up of a diverse mix of people from all backgrounds, ages and walks of life. Anyone can attend. You don't have to be a Christian. You don't have to wear a uniform. Whoever you are, you are welcome.

Most corps also provide a practical expression of the Christian faith during the week, when the doors are open to offer programmes and activities for the whole community. These may include youth activities, parents and toddlers' groups, drop-in centres, lunch clubs, senior citizens' clubs and lots more. They may also offer emergency assistance such as groceries and clothing to individuals and families in need.

ADDICTIONS SERVICES
1 Champion Park, London SE5 8BQ
020 7326 2700

In 2009 after the closure of the last residential addictions centre in Scotland, the leaders of The Salvation Army requested the development of a Scotland Drug & Alcohol (Addiction) Strategy which was then formally launched in 2013 to support communities affected by addictions. The approach taken was to provide support in the community with a Scottish Drug and Alcohol Worker (SDAW) based in the nearest TSA Corps (local church).

The service was established across five key areas identified through the needs of the communities. Our vision, rooted in a Christian Approach to Harm Reduction, focuses on positive change and on building relationships and safety with people, without judgement, coercion, discrimination, or requiring that they stop their behaviour as a pre-condition of support. This approach also offers the opportunity to provide support to those affected by issues of substance use and to their families.

Alongside this we have also introduced a programme known as “Core Recovery”. This is a new model of spiritual community as an accepting and inclusive environment that allows people to explore issues of spirituality and faith and how these can help in recovery from addiction. Although Core Recovery was initially designed for those in recovery, it has been recognised that the model has a much wider scope and is valid for a broader mix of people. It is now an integral part of our Mission Service and is being explored in many Salvation Army settings and communities across the territory.

Over the last 20 years, we have supported individuals and families across Scotland. Our services aim to respond to social need, working with people at their point of need with a person-centred approach. The programmes are voluntary, unconditional and flexible to support service users with one-to-one support, therapeutic groupwork and meaningful activities available.

Since 2017, we have partnered with the University of Stirling to establish the Salvation Army Centre for Addiction Services and Research (SACASR). This partnership has led to a number of exciting research opportunities to develop The Salvation Army's addictions work and has allowed our services to be involved in new and innovative research projects that have impacted the wider sector. This has included research on staff wellbeing during the pandemic, managed alcohol programmes (MAP), Housing First and supporting harm reduction through peer support. A number of Salvation Army personnel have completed or are studying for the MSc in Substance Use at the University of Stirling, which enhances their personal professional development, and creates sustainable growth within our workforce.

In 2024 the Scottish Drug & Alcohol Strategy was reviewed and integrated into the Salvation Army's Addiction Strategy for the whole of the UK & Ireland Territory. In the coming years this approach will be introduced to locations throughout the UK & Ireland.

EMERGENCY SERVICES

Our emergency services involve officers and volunteers who are trained and available to respond to major incidents in the following ways:

- Providing refreshments and emotional support to responders at the incident site. We have emergency vehicles located in Edinburgh and Glasgow.
- Giving support to individuals at designated rest centres or humanitarian assistance centres.
- Supporting family members and friends at an emergency mortuary viewing area.
- Making our church buildings available as shelters for local residents who have been evacuated from their homes.

Our Emergency Services are contacted via the relevant DHQ.

FAMILY TRACING SERVICE

www.salvationarmy.org.uk/FamilyTracing

The Family Tracing Service is based in our London headquarters and a member of the Scotland Office carries out research at the National Records office in Edinburgh.

The service helps people locate relatives who have lost contact with each other. For some people, searching for family is an emotional experience. The service has a professional, compassionate and non-judgemental approach, with support given throughout the searching process.

There is no guarantee of success in every search, but of applications accepted, the success rate is 89%.

HOMELESSNESS SERVICES

4 Buchanan Court, Cumbernauld Road, Stepps, Glasgow, G33 6HZ
0141 779 5251

We provide support for people who are at risk of or experiencing homelessness. Many of the people who use our services are living with multiple and complex challenges, such as substance use and mental health. In order to meet the needs of people accessing our services we offer a diverse range of programmes and interventions, based on harm reduction, person-centred and trauma informed approaches.

In Scotland we have 16 centres and projects. These include accommodation-based services (called Lifehouses), outreach and housing first services and day/drop-in centres.

The ultimate aim is to enable individuals using services to move to a place that they can call home, a place where they feel safe, secure, and happy.

Our chaplaincy services complement the support services by providing spiritual guidance and assistance.

The following pages show where our homeless services are located and what they do.

ABERDEENSHIRE

Aberdeenshire Outreach Service

North Scotland DHQ, Deer Road, Aberdeen, AB24 2BL

Service Manager, 07552 860016 or Administrator 07341 571407

<https://www.salvationarmy.org.uk/homelessness/floating-support-and-outreach-services>

The Aberdeenshire Outreach Service provides a floating support service to those at risk of homelessness across Aberdeenshire. By referral from Aberdeenshire Council, it provides housing support to those who are marginalised through homelessness, enabling and empowering them to develop skills, confidence and abilities to sustain an independent tenancy. The service works across the biggest local authority area in Scotland, which at times means working in small isolated communities.

As well as providing face to face support in tenancies, the support staff encourage people to engage in various drop-ins across Aberdeenshire, and this helps reduce isolation as well as increasing engagement in the local community.
