THOUGHT: Sara Coleridge (1802- 1852) was a poet who wrote one poem about the Months of the Year. Each month gets 2 lines only and February says;

February brings the rain,
Thaws the frozen lake again

I think we all know quite a lot about the rain, it really hasn't stopped for quite a while has it! When we wake to a rainy day we can feel fed up but the little quote below suggests that we turn rainy days into happy days.

'Life isn't about waiting for the storm to pass...It's about learning to dance in the rain.'

One very rainy day, whilst I was teaching, I was standing at the school's main door with two boys who were waiting for the torrential rain to pause so they could run for home. The rain seemed to go on and on so they decided to go out into the big puddle outside the door, and, with the rain pelting down, they splashed and danced. It was a great sight and a really happy moment so....I went and joined them. What started as an obstacle, ended with fun and laughter. I think that rainy day turned out to be a real 'shower of blessing'.

Proverbs 17:22 says 'A joyful heart is good medicine, but a crushed spirit dries up the bones.'
