Prayer matters...it really does!

Continue praying this month for:

- Our Corps family including the family of Muriel Lucas seeking comfort for them in these days;
- For the ongoing mission and outreach of the Corps and Charity Shop especially as the autumn season begins to hit; that a warm welcome to our ministry and activity will always be given;
- For the preparations being made for Advent and Christmas ministry to be fully realised, praising our Lord and Saviour;
- For those in our community and country struggling with the economic difficulties of this time, that the church universal will be able to offer love, light and support in Jesus' name.
- All who lead locally, nationally and internationally - ask the Lord for wisdom and discernment of the common good to be in all decisions made, thinking twice about words or actions which can cause harm or destruction.
- Those facing injustice or oppression worldwide.

Ydych chi'n cofio...do you remember?

In this month so significant for remembrance I wonder how good your memory is? Are you someone who can cast your mind back a long way or do you sometimes have trouble even remembering what you had for tea last night? And how are you with names?

As a former secondary school teacher you had to be reasonably skilled in being able to learn and retain the names of the different pupils you had for all the classes you had to teach each week. But the problem for me is that having taught for 28 years I accumulated a lot of names during that time but can't say with a good degree of certainty or accuracy that I could match many of them up with the actual faces of the pupils who moved through my classes over so many years!

The Biblical truth that God knows us all individually by name, personality and being, never ceases to amaze me; I encourage you to read Psalm 139 to discover more about this. How can it be that the Creator of all time and space has the ability to know the intricacies and intimacies of all those He has created? But in Jesus, God's Son, our Lord and Saviour, we have the answer. For in the love shown between them, in Jesus' regular stepping aside to create time with His Father, we learn that a dynamic relationship existed between them, more than merely a remembrance or recognition. When we become a follower of Jesus, we are guaranteed that same dynamic relationship with God, our Heavenly Father too, kept vibrant and living through the daily work of the Holy Spirit.

As we take time this month to remember with grateful thanks the names of all those who in war have paid the ultimate sacrifice for our freedom, let's remember that because of Jesus, we have the privilege of having a one-on-one, living relationship with the Almighty God, Creator of everything who not only knows our individual names but desires to spend time with us each day and who loves us beyond all we can ever conceive or imagine, as Calvary reminds us.
